4. Review

Here are some of the truths that you've learned about developing spiritual family:

- * We are all a part of God's family – we are His children and are connected together in Christ.
- * God wants us to love each other by action, not just by words.
- * As a spiritual family in God, we must take care of one another's needs (even when it might cost us our own comforts) - this was the example that the early church set for us.
- * True friends are those that build you up, protect you and also love you enough to tell you when you are wrong – as iron sharpens iron – their words are not always comfortable, but they are good.

5. Apply

Here are some practical things that you can do to develop spiritual family:

- * Focus on building friendships. Find somebody at church that you can relate to and start building a friendship with them. Start with, "Hi, my name is..."
- * Begin with questions about things that you are interested in. Share some of your life questions and struggles with them.
- * Identify people at church that you feel need someone to talk to. Be the change that you want to see. If you want love, give love. If you want friendship, be a friend.
- * Be aware of the people's needs around you and help wherever you can.

6. Act

Write down specifics steps that you will take in the next few days to develop spiritual family:

Practise #7 Developing Spiritual Family

1. Relate

Bathandwa is home alone... again. His big brother is at boarding school because of a transfer of schools and now it's just him and his mom at home. Things are slow, as he has nobody to hang around with anymore. Bathandwa was very close to his brother. Whenever he got into trouble he ran straight to him. They loved each other and always protected one another through everything. But now things have changed because of the distance between them. Bathandwa feels like nobody understands him anymore. He feels like people would judge him if he opened himself up to them. So he stays at home most of the time, watching DVD's and playing computer games. One day he is invited to a youth group event. He hesitates, but eventually decides to go out and see what it's all about. Secretly, he is hoping for a chance to have a good time with people for a change. When he gets there everybody seems to get along and they seem to be having fun too. For the first time in months, Bathandwa feels like there's a chance he may find friendship... family.

Practise #1 Making Jesus Lord

1. Relate

Adam has been invited to a party at one of their class friend's home. It is a house party and Bob's parents are away for the weekend. Everyone from school is there. Bob welcomes Adam and shoves a beer in his hand as he arrives at the door. "Time to Par-tay!!!" he hollers. One of the 'hot' girls from school, Maxine also comes sauntering by and asks Adam to dance, tugging at his belt buckle as she bats her eyes at him. He resists and pulls away, almost running out onto the patio where he puts the beer down. Here he meets with some friends from school, they are all showing off their latest labels and pointing and laughing at some of the other people at the party that aren't wearing the cool stuff. Adam is feeling uneasy about this as he has just heard a sermon about making Jesus the Lord of His life and hanging out with believers. But he also remembers that Jesus was called a friend of sinners. Later Bob calls him over to come and sit in the Jacuzzi with him and some girls. Adam declines the invitation as he remembers the Scripture about avoiding even the appearance of evil. He takes a Coke from the kitchen and spends a couple of hours talking to some friends and speaking well about the people that others are laughing at. It is difficult because some of the guys make fun of him. He just shrugs it off and reflects on how the "gate to heaven is narrow and few find it but the gate to hell is wide open". By around ten most of the people are drunk so he decides to call his mom and leave earlier than planned. While he is calling the others are jeering "party pooper, fader". He just smiles and says goodbye in a friendly way. On the way out he helps to break up a potential fight between two guys.

Practise #6 Becoming a Disciplemaker

1. Relate

Adam has heard about the great commission that Jesus gave his disciples, to "go into all the world and make disciples of all nations, teaching them to obey everything that Jesus commanded them". He is thinking about how this could happen at his school as that is his 'mission field'. He has heard that following Jesus will cost him his whole life...but what does that mean? What is he prepared to give up? His popularity at school by challenging the behavior of some of the rebellious guys in this class who like to smoke and bunk and pick on the girls? He may give up his breaks by having a Bible study group in one of the teacher's classes. He may even give up his tuckshop money by blessing others and drawing them into the group. He thinks about what Jesus has done on the cross for him and how God became a man to come and show us the way to live and then died on the cross so our sins could be forgiven and we could be reconciled us to God. He feels that the least he can do in response to this great love is make some sacrifices at school.

George has also heard the message about the Great Commission. He reasons that when he is older he might go on a mission. At the moment his lunch breaks are too precious to him. He likes to play soccer and be the one who scores at whatever cost. He sometimes hangs around the tuck-shop trying to get food out of the younger kids. He believes that he is saved because he believes in Jesus but he doesn't feel that he needs to share it with anyone. People always get irritated when you try to tell them to do things. He would rather tolerate other's beliefs and show them Jesus by the way he lives - after all everybody has the right to their own opinions - you can't force Jesus on them. And as for sharing the gospel with the smokers, maybe he will go and join them and just have one or two cigarettes with them so that he can win them over to his way of living by first relating to them...

2. Discover

- (1) What did Jesus tell the first disciples to do? Matthew 4:19
- (2) What Did Jesus promise he would do for his followers if they responded? Matthew 4:19

- * The law of sowing and reaping applies to money – we receive to the extent that we give.

Practise #2 Having Daily Devotions

1. Relate

Thando and David are best friends and they LOVE girls. They both enjoy going to house parties in the weekends and dancing the night away. The truth is that the girls also love them. What's not to like? They are easy on the eye and cool without even trying hard. The only difference between the two is that Thando reads his bible everyday and goes to church every Sunday. He does not always understand what he hears and sees, but he keeps at it. David, on the other hand does not read his bible and on Sundays he sleeps in. One Thursday, an invitation goes out, announcing the biggest house party of the year. Everybody is excited, ready and keen to have a good time before exams. That week school is only bearable because of what the weekend has in store. Thando and David decide that this time they are going to go all the way with whoever they hook up with at the party. They start eyeing out which girls they want to invite to the party. They plan on how they will get the girl to agree to not only first base, not just second base, but all the way. On Friday night, as Thando is about to sleep, he remembers one of the things that he read in his bible earlier that week. It said, "Let marriage be held in honour and the marriage bed be kept pure..." What did this mean, he wondered? As he was tossing and turning, he thought of many things. "Does it mean that I must not have sex until marriage? Is that what pure means? Must I save myself for my wife and give her my virginity as a gift on our wedding day? That's dumb. That's cool. Will she wait for me?" As he was thinking and thinking, he did not have a definite answer, but what he did know was that God did not want him to go through with the plan that weekend. He felt it in his heart. Although he didn't hear an audible voice, he knew it was wrong and God was quietly saying to him, "Don't do it, son. I love you. Don't do it."

On the first day of the month Steve took R20 to church and placed it in the offering box at igniteYOUTH (and to be honest, it felt really good to be giving) but he could not help worrying about stretching his R180 over the rest of the month. While he was hanging out with Chris after the service he learned that Chris was raising money for his mission trip to Australia and he was really surprised when he reached into his pocket and gave Chris the R20 that he had brought along for chips and a Russian after the service. During the week he set up a budget using some of the guidelines in the article he had read and he decided to set limits around his cell phone usage and the amount of money he was spending at the school tuck shop. He also decided to turn his wallet over to God and ask Him what He thought each time he opened his wallet to spend money. Steve was blown away when his granny Bee visited during the week and gave him R80 – and he realised that was double what he had given away on the weekend – and when he made it to the end of the month and still had R20 left – he knew that he was onto something!

Sam too was struggling to make his money stretch over the month and when he did a Google search he came across the same article written by the leader at His People Church. He nearly fell off his chair laughing as he read of how he needed to give his way out of his tight financial situation. “Yeah, right, like I am going to give away some of the R200 each month and then try to stretch what is left.” But it was a really sad month when by the 15th he has blown his whole allowance on fast food, airtime and stuff that seemed to stop satisfying him as soon as he had bought it. At school he overheard this guy, Steve, telling a story of how he had gotten to the end of the month and actually had money left over and was finding that he was living off more than what he was getting because he was following the advice he had gotten from an article written by one of the leaders at his church. If he was not so proud he might have gone back to the history folder in his Internet browser and read the article again

2. Discover

Read these Scriptures to discover what God says about handling money and prosperity:

- (1) What can happen to people who want to get rich? 1 Timothy 6:9
- (2) Why is the love of money the root of all evil and what can it do to people? 1 Timothy 6:10
- (3) What is the point of the parable of the Rich Fool? Luke 12:16-21

Practise #3
Practising God's Presence

1. Relate

Sam and Steve both found themselves struggling with fear as they tried to prepare for tests at school and they worried that they were going to have a panic attack. They heard how one of the other kids in their same grade at school actually had an attack and turned blue as they gasped for breath – it was not a pretty sight to watch! What if it happened to them?

Sam told a friend at school about his struggle with fear and was given a book by Oprah entitled: The Power of Positive Thinking. In the book Oprah says that the way to overcome fear is by using a mantra (a phrase you say over and over to yourself – like they do in Eastern religions). The mantra is: Nothing can change the way I feel. I am not afraid of anything! Sam decided to give it a try and even though it seemed to help a little he still had a feeling of dread as he tried to learn for the exam and when he found himself in the bathroom on the morning of the exam struggling to breath he realised that his worst fears had come true.

Steve told one of his friends at school about his struggle with fear and he was given a book by Brother Lawrence entitled: The Practise of the Presence of God. The monk in the story, who learnt how to develop little habits to experience God throughout his day, suggested that when you learn how to practise God's presence you will know that God is with you and that he is there to protect you because he loves you as his very own child. After reading the book and starting to practise the habits (like using reminders of God's presence and using his senses to become and stay aware of God who is always with him), Steve found that he was more relaxed and did not experience any of the overwhelming feelings he had before.

2. Discover

- (1) Where can you find the presence of God? Psalm 139:7-11

- (2) What did God want Joshua to know when he took over from Moses? Joshua 1:5,9

- (6) What special promise did Jesus make to those who gather in his name? Mathew 18:20

- (7) What do the following passages say happen when we practise God's presence?

- * Your faith grows when you hear the Word of God; when you get into it and it gets into you.
- * Faith without action is dead.
- * Moving in faith does not mean you have the full picture in mind.
- * Faith does not ignore facts, but rather it chooses to look at God in the midst of them.

Handling Money Wisely

1. Relate

Steve was finding it impossible to make his pocket money stretch to the end of the month – his money always ran out long before the month ran out! He tried asking his dad for an increase but things were really tight at home financially and that was not possible. He decided to do a Google search for help with handling the money he got each month – it was only R200 but surely someone out there has some ideas on how to make it go further. One of the first hits was a link to an article written by one of the leaders at His People Christian Church – as he started to read the article the lights went on as he learnt that: “All his money actually belongs to God and he just looks after it for God; God loves to bless his children with wealth so they can prosper and be a blessing to others; and we prosper when we give the first tenth to God and use the other 90% in a way that pleases Him.”

Luke 8:43-48:

(5) What did Abraham do when God promised him a son when he was 100? Romans 4:19-21

(6) What should our response be when things don't go according to our plans? Job 1:21

(7) How are we called to live?

Galatians 2:20:

Hebrews 11:6:

2 Corinthians 5:7:

Now that you have studied the Bible to learn about living by faith, think about the story and write how you feel Sarah's thinking was influenced by faith more than by her circumstances:

- * Faith is the evidence of things not yet seen and the substance of things hoped for.

Psalms 63:6-8

Psalms 16:8

- * God is always with me – he has promised to never leave me – he does not come and go!
- * I need to experience the reality of God's presence by practising His presence
- * No matter what I face, if I know God is with me, I will not be overwhelmed with fear.
- * When I practise God's presence I will become Holy (more like Jesus); Intimate (closer to Jesus) and Secure (safe in Jesus).

5. Apply

Here are some practical things that you can do to practise God's presence:

- * Remind yourself of the reality of God's presence – throughout the day you need to remember that God is with you (closer than a brother). Find creative ways to remember God is with you.

- * Decide to talk to God continuously – you should make a conscious decision to MXit with God as much as possible throughout the day.
- * Keep going even when you forget God is with you – when you realise it has been a few hours since you thought of God, don't beat yourself up – just admit it and continue where you left off!
- * Do everything for the Lord (Colossians 3:17, 23). Everything you do (even boring tasks) can be done with God and to bring him praise. This will help you include God in all of your life.
- * Take control of your senses and let them turn your thoughts to God – use your five senses (sight, sound, smell, taste and touch) to help you connect with God during the day.

Practise #4 Living by Faith

1. Relate

Sarah is a matric student that has had a great year. Prefect at her school and distinctions in all her 7 subjects, the world is hers to take. Two prestigious universities have already offered her full scholarships and she is a strong candidate for a bursary at the University of Oxford in England. The only thing left for her to decide on is what she wants to do. This is proving to be a difficult choice because she has no clue. Nothing out there is grabbing her attention yet. As she is deciding on which degree she wants to pursue, Sarah finds out that she has been offered the overseas bursary to study in England for any course she chooses. Everything is going her way. On the last day of school, Sarah decides to go and say a personal goodbye to the headmaster. After the friendly chat and farewell, the headmaster says something in passing, "Good luck on your studies Sarah, not many have had the same opportunities as you. So be grateful." As Sarah closes the door, the headmaster's last words stick in her head and keep playing. "What does he mean by, not many?" she wonders. As she is at home, surfing the net, she decides to look up the matric rates in the country. Sarah is shocked at the state of things. Not only does she find low pass rates, but she finds out that the level of education in general is not good. From teachers to text books, the system is in a mess. Suddenly, Sarah has a feeling deep in her stomach. It is the feeling of wanting to help. But how? As she researches on, she finds that there is a two year programme that is open to matriculants to come and tutor under privileged pupils in rural schools for two hours a day. Something in her jumps up at the sense of doing something to help, but quickly it disappears as she realized that "bigger" things await her overseas. It doesn't make sense to give up the bursary. In fact, surely she could help more if she went away to learn abroad.
